Ceramics market in 2022

Until 2019 there was an annual ceramics market organized in Delft. Although the organizer has passed away, the SKPD (Delft Foundation for the Promotion of Ceramics) intends to continue this tradition. The Foundation was founded in 1995 and has obtained the cultural status 'ANBI' (Organisations Contributing to General Welfare) from the Dutch government.

The SKPD provides a high-quality market with a widely diverse range of ceramics with different techniques and subjects.

For this first edition of The Delft Ceramics Days, 60 international ceramists are invited to participate. A annually ceramics event is realized on the market in the historical city center of Delft. For this first edition in 2022 of the Delftse Keramiek Dagen (The Delft Ceramic Days), international ceramists of stature are invited to participate. Ceramists who register themselves will be balloted. This way quality and variation can be monitored. A great event where the public can count on a wide diversity in ceramics, with different techniques and subjects being offered.

The Delft Ceramics Days are organized by a team from the SKPD. This team consists of:

- Herman Weyers, director of the Vermeer Centrum Delft and event's organizer
- Ellen Rijdsdorp, ceramist
- Simone Haak, owner of Gallery Terra Delft and ceramist
- Joke Doedens, owner of Gallery Terra Delft

Ceramics market in 2022

Delft Ceramics Days 2022 contains::

Ceramics Market: 25+26 juni Market Delft (www.skpd.nl)

exhibition 'Echo of Majiayao' till June 25 , 2022 Old Church Delft. Fourteen international ceramicists joined Galerie Terra Delft and Jackson Li of the Sanbao International Ceramic Institute in Jingdezhen (CN), in the adventure of a work period in the Chinese town of Lintao, a stone's throw from the village of Majiayao, where Neolithic painted pottery was found in the 1920s.

The artists were asked to complete a number of works in their own studios, incorporating the experiences of the project in Majiayao. This collection of contemporary ceramics features references to the Neolithic pots, the original source.

The participating artists are:

Liesbeth Kamp – The Netherlands Saskia Pfaeltzer - The Netherlands Mechtild Paauwe – The Netherlands Marc Janssens – Belgium Mieke Everaet - Belgium Martin McWilliam – Germany John Higgins – Great Britain Paul-Robin Sjöström – Sweden Morten Løbner Espersen – Denmark Sangwoo Kim – France Jay Lu – New Zealand Vilma Villaverde – Argentina Hidemi Tokutake – Japan Jackson Li - China (organisation Galerie Terra Delft: www.terra-delft.nl)

exhibition 'The 36 Vases Parade' till July 2, 2022; Galerie Terra Delft. International exhibition to mark the 36th anniversary of Terra Delft Gallery; 36 vases, 11 artists.

The subject of the vase harks back to a commonly known object that has traditionally adorned people's living environments. The vase thus embodies the past, present, and future in ceramic art. Artists from many disciplines have embraced the vase as a form of expression of their artistic message. The vase has been depicted as a subject in painting, as seen in many a masterpiece, historical and contemporary. Famous and widely-appreciated ceramic vases have also been decorated by greats from other disciplines of the arts such as Picasso, Armando and Grayson Perry.

Most of the vases in this international exhibition are non-functional and not tied to size or technique. This impressive vase parade, where diversity predominates, includes work by (world) famous artists. This group exhibition is unique in its composition and shows a surprising collection of 36 vases of considerable quality.

The participating artists are:

Felicity Aylieff (Great Britain) / Peter F. Beard (Great Britain) / Daphne Corregan (France) / Wouter Dam (The Netherlands) / Pippin Drysdale (Australia) / Ken Eastman (Great Britain) / Babs Haenen (The Netherlands) / JP Hol (UK-The Netherlands) / Wan Liya (China) / Elke
